Roadshow has started from main road of Nashik. Ending the global sanitation crisis is one of the most urgent developmental challenges of the 21st century. By the end of 2011 there were 2.5 billion people, over one third of the world's population, living without safe, adequate sanitation and hygiene. The lack of access to this essential service holds back social and economic development through its negative impacts on health, education and livelihoods. It contributes significantly to malnutrition, stunting and the overall global burden of disease.

Menstruation is a natural, normal biological process experienced by all adolescent girls and women, yet it is not spoken about openly causing unnecessary embarrassment and shame India's 113 million adolescent girls are particularly vulnerable at the onset of menarche. At this time they need a safe environment that offers protection and guidance to ensure their basic health, well-being and educational opportunity is realized. Yet a recent survey found that in 14,724 government schools only 53% had a separate and usable girl's toilet. At home the situation also need to improve as 132 million households do not have a toilet (2015), leaving adolescent girls and women to face the indignity of open defecation. However, safe and effective menstrual hygiene management, or 'MHM' is a trigger for better and stronger development for adolescent girls and women. By celebrating this day woman are more aware for ownself.
